Humor

THE LOST LOCKER KEY

Lost—Lost—
You are lost forever.
I've hunted for you high and low,
But I will find you—never.

Sad—Sad—
A tear is in my eye,
I never dreamed you'd disappear,
And that is why I cry.

Hours—Hours—
To which I have been late,
Because I pace the corridors
And ponder on your fate.

Near—Near—
You were always with me,
And that is why I miss you now
MY LONG LOST LOCKER KEY!

—Margaret Throckmorton.

"Johnny", said the teacher, "would you like to go to heaven?"

"Yes I would, but mother told me to come right home after school."

There was a man, now please take note,
There was a man who had a goat.
He loved this goat, indeed he did;
He loved this goat just like a kid.
One day the goat felt frisky and fine,
Ate three red shirts from off the line;
The man grabbed him by the back
And tied him to the railroad track!
And as the train hove into sight
The goat grew pale and green with fright;
He heaved a sigh as if in pain,
Coughed up those shirts and flagged the train!

I don't get ones and teacher's cross,
It seems to me like life's a loss!"

A teacher talked to him one day,
And explained to him in her own way,
About taking an interest in his school,
Instead of forever breaking rules.

He forgot about——just me,
And tried, a football man to be.
He studied hard and didn't shirk,
Made his studies play, not work.

"PARK with PARK"

Speaking of definitions, a sleeper is one who sleeps. A sleeper is also a car in which the sleeper sleeps. A sleeper is, additionally, the tie which holds the rails on which the second sleeper runs while carrying the first sleeper. Therefore, while the first sleeper sleeps in the second sleeper, this second sleeper carries the first sleeper over the third sleeper which supports the second sleeper until the sleeper which carries the sleeper jumps the sleeper and wakes the sleeper in the sleeper by bumping the sleeper under the sleeper, and then there is no sleeper in the sleeper over the sleeper, unless his name happens to be Sleeper, and even then if the switchman is also a sleeper, the first sleeper becomes as dead as the third sleeper.

"I hear you have accepted, Wayne" Frances said acidly. "I suppose that he never told you that he once proposed to me."

"No", retorted Wayne's New affinity, "not exactly. He merely said that he had done lots of very silly things before meeting me—and I didn't ask him what they were."

WHY I AM A TEACHER HERE AT ROOSEVELT

When I was a child I wanted to be a street car conductor. I went to grammar school and graduated with high honors. From there I went to high school, where I was an honor student. By the time I had graduated from college I had won my Phi Beta Kappa key. A week after graduation I tried to get the job I had been preparing for. The trouble was that at that time there was a business depression and only the more educated and intelligent man cou'd get a job as a street car conductor. I lost my grip on life and took the easiest way out. I got a job as a teacher here.

No prince more courtly; none more understanding.

She listened, yielding with a faltering blush.

That night she told her husband, sighing sadly.

"Oh, John, I've bought another kind of brush."

Swaying couples, gliding gracefully to the melody that seemed to come as on a breeze. Radiant faces, eyes shining with joy and love. Hearts beating faster. All about him was happiness. He sat, eagerly waiting. His hands touched her eye so tenderly as she was in his lap. He bent her slightly, so that her slim, graceful lines were even more appealing, and gazed at her for a moment as if bewildered. His lips were poised, and as the sweet notes descended in a bewitching cadence from the violin, and the saxophones took up the rhythmic swing, he pressed his lips tightly against the cornet and continued playing, after the rest shown in the music.

Can you imagine the following quotations:

Mr. Cook: "At the close of the assembly we will all go to our last hour classes and just skip the fifth period."

Miss Balliet: "Just report prepared or unprepared and we'll let it go at that."

Miss Wiley: "I know the girls wouldn't want to take gym without showers, so we won't check them this year."

Coach Harris: "You boys all know we're going to be city basketball champions again, so we won't keep training rules."

Miss Schreiner: "You may have the entire period for study and there will be no more Virgil assignments."

Miss Swem: "Don't mind the expense, we have lots of money in the treasury."

Miss E. Moulton: "No, I'm not going to read to you today. You'll have to study the whole period by yourselves.

Captain: "All hands on deck, the ship's leaking."

Mr. Irwin, (disgustedly): "Just put a pan under the thing and go to bed."

There was a man who was sleeping and he dreamed that he was eating shredded wheat. When he awoke his pillow was gone.

BEWARE THE PHELAN

The Knight was soon over and Day appeared. The sun shone over the Mountain bringing forth Silver and Golden rays. Down the Lane appeared the tradesman from the Towne of Perry. Among the group were the Carpenter, the Seaman, the Blacksmith, the Baker and the Cook. They had not proceeded far when out of the Woods roared a Lyon ready to charge. The Blacksmith was *Madden*ed with rage and suggested that they jump into the Rosefield for a Fort. But it was a hot day and like a heated Boiler. The Baker, a man of Riddles made headway across the Barron plain, but because of his selfishness in thinking only of his own escape, a Knutt fell upon his Ruftcorn and he fell. Out from the Rosefield came the Seamon to his rescue but seeing the Lyon charging, he Sneath up the Windmiller and grabbed vigorously on a wind. The wind was quite Strong and the Seamon being quite Stout, was unable to Bengood, so fell. But luckily he fell not on the Graves, as a Ford, and as he sped along in the Nicol plated bus, the Seaman dropped down into the seat. The Cook wearied with his Gum chewing which now was as small as a Crumb since most of the Gum had been *Swallow*ed in his excitement, Cordingley as the others did, flew off and a Swan picked him up and dropped him in the Parrish.

The Lyon fell into the Marsh because of his frenzy and thus this Grave tale is ended.

He struck her. He struck her again, and again. But she uttered not a sound. Once more the brute hit her on the head: brave little thing that she was, she didn't even whimper or flinch. Then, outraged because of her indifference, he dealt her blow after blow, without the least sign of remorse. Cruel beast! He uttered a low oath, then again striking her little head, even scratching her in his frenzy. Finally, she could bear no more. Suddenly she uttered a shrill spark of protest, and broke into a flame, for you see she was only a match—and all wet, at that.

Why weakly sigh and fret?
Cheer up! the more you haven't got,
The more there is to get.

Every time a man laughs he takes a kink out of the chain of life.

It's easy to cry, "I'm beaten", and die.
It's easy to crawfish and crawl,
But to fight and to fight
When hope's out of sight,
Why, that's the best game of them all.
And should you come out
Of each gruelling bout
All broken and beaten and scarred,
Just have one more try—it's easy to die—
It's the keeping on living that's hard.

TWENTY YEARS IN BUSINESS

A district having been subjected to several earthquake shocks, a married couple sent their little boy to an uncle who lived out of the danger zone. A day or two later they received a telegram:

"Am returning your boy — send earthquake."

And as we walked and talked beneath the bowers
I wondered who in heck sent her those flowers!

Will it clear?"
Loud wailed a dame on deck.

PALS

Have you a pal with whom you share
Your pleasure, woes—fun and care?
One who's there when you are blue
And tells you just the thing to do.

This person is in your mind
The one and only of his kind.
He never shoes when he is hurt,
Though your remarks sometimes are curt.

He sticks by through thick or thin,
With the consoling words, "You'll win."
When a feller needs a friend that's true
He always comes to a pal like you.

UNDER THE SPREADING CHESTNUT TREE

With proper apologies to Longfellow

Under the spreading chestnut tree
The lazy senior lays;
His books are in his locker,
And he's in a golden haze.
Tho' the teachers rave and fume,
He dreams away his days.

His brain, it wanders everywhere,
Except where it should go;
His brow is wet with honest sweat
That trickles down it, slow;
And as you look into his face
You wonder why 'tis so.

Day in, day out, 'til school does end
You'll see him here and there—
You'll know him by his aimless step,
And by his pensive air.
His pale attempts at dignity
Will often make you stare.

—Margaret Throckmorton.

WRINKLE, WRINKLE ON MY BROW

Wrinkle, wrinkle on my brow,
When did I get you and how?

Upon my cranium so high
Like a dark cloud in the sky.

Tho' my Civics all is done,
Tho' my lessons total none,
On my head you firmly stay—
Wrinkle, wrinkle, go away!

Tell me why and whence you came,
Do you mark the path of fame?
Proof that I'm a senior now,
Wrinkle, wrinkle, on my brow.

CAN YOU EXPLAIN

Why some of the fellows order Coca Colas at Boyce's?
Why Jergon Corht always has so much candy in his pockets?
Why teachers delight in springing tests?
Why sixth hour students pass tests so much higher than first hour idiots?
Why Mr. Cook won't wear bells on his toes so we'll know when he is coming?
Why Monday is so blue?
Why some of our best looking fellows wear their hair long enough to braid?
How some people can talk so much and say so little?
Why punishment makes such an impression on our sense of humor?
Why ponies are so much more popular than donkies?
Why some people are so proud of their singing voices?
How in the world this silly stuff got into print?

IF YOU HAD $10,000 AND ONE YEAR TO LIVE; WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Here's what these people would do:

Dean Ingleman: I would buy a $5,000 ranch and go to Canada and live alone.

Mary Taylor: Buy a ritzy car and head for Cal.

John Dudley: Buy a $10,000 bed and sleep.

John E. Craft: Read all possible literature on how to live longer.

Maxine Muir: Spend the year framing the $10,000.

Maxine Harding: Buy some exclusive Paris styles and spend 364 nights in a paris night club.

Marjorie Pilmer: Die of the shock.

Verna Olmstead: Buy $10,000 worth of food and eat it; and spend the other 364 days recuperating.

Bill Thompson: Buy Annabelle $10,000 worth of locker keys and spend the year losing them.

Lois Hill: Kill myself having a good time.

Irma Nichols: Have all the money changed into pennies and throw them away.

Willis Haven: Invent a perpetual movement life machine.

George Rood: Down Hunsicker in poker and die happy.

Helen Drew: Visit all the foreign countries and flirt with the foreigners.

Give me an old Nor'wester,
With hail stones by the peck,
A driving sleet, beneath my feet
The toss of an icy deck,
Put me aloft in the blizzard,
A-furling a frozen sail,
I'll bare with zest my manly chest
To the teeth of the icy gale.
This is the life for me, boys!
The life of a sailor, oh!—
I live it eke three times a week

PARODY TO "ALL OF ME"

Late to class, why am I late to class?
I need a pass, but where will I get one?
Teachers cross, I never get there,
It's just like a tragic nightmare;
You said that my excuse was a lie,
An alibi that did not get me by.
'Twas the look on your face,
That taught me my place,
And now I'm on time to class.

Miss Jacobs: "What is the meaning of the word 'murderous'?"

Frank Dole: "A murderess is a lady who commits murders."

Jane and Bill drove up the hill
In their little old rickety flivver.
They hit a wire and blew out a tire
And tumbled down into the river.

Little Miss Bar
Sat in her car
Eating pumpkin pie;
Along came a sheik
Whom she'd known just a week
And took Miss Bar bye-bye.

Nadine I. (To Junk Man): "Is that a dray horse?"

Junk Man: "No, it's a brown horse; and stop your baby talk."

The man who broke the record driving a stock car from coast to coast, probably was looking for a place to park.

Nanie Martin: "But you'll admit I have a pretty face."

John Dudley: "Even a barn looks good when it's painted."
